WOODMEN OF THE WORLD

Decorate the Graves of Their Deceased Sovereigns—Rev. Elgin Makes Appropriate Address

The Woodmen of the World on last Sunday afternoon decorated the graves of Sovereigns W. T. Carliss and Thomas Morgan, as an honor to their memory and to express a brotherly reverence for their worth.

The Woodmen formed a line of march at the their Camp and headed by the Silver Cornet Band, of Marion, followed by a large number of Woodmen, marched to the cemetery, where a large crowd of people had assembled to witness the ceremonies. The Woodmen formed a "wedge" about the graves of Sovereigns Carliss and Morgan and when the Band and Sovereigns had assembled about the grave, Rev. Virgil Elgin, who had been asked by Rosewood Camp No. 22, of Marion, only a few minutes before the Woodmen started to the cemetery, to speak, generously responded with an able address, in which he explained the object of the services and the charitable, benevolent custom of the Woodmen in decorating the graves of their deceased sovereigns once each year. The address of Rev. Elgin was listened to with much pleasure by the large audience. After Rev. Elgin had finished his delightful and able talk upon the objects and lessons of Woodcraft and while the Band played a piece of sacred music, the sovereigns left their places in the "wedge" and placed their emblem of remembrance, flowers, upon the graves of Sovereigns Carliss and Morgan.

The Woodmen ceremonies were very beautiful and most appropriate. The Band furnished music on the way to and from the cemetery.

There was quite a crowd witnessed the decorating services of the Woodmen and each and every person expressed themselves as being proud of the fact Marion possessed a Band that could render such appropriate and delightful music for such an occasion and the people who were fortunate enough to attend the services at the grave, expressed their high appreciation of the fact that in Marion there was a band of fraternal brothers who did not forget their dead brothers but with suitable ceremonies visited their graves and with their emblems of remembrance, keep alive the teachings of their order.

Strawberries for Fourth of July.

Fresh home-grown strawberries were delivered by Will Adams, the champion berry grower of the county, to a few of his "high particular" friends for "Fourth of July" dinner today. This is the latest strawberries we have ever heard of in this section and is the result of a second growth crop which came on his vines on which the first crop had been killed by freeze, while in bloom.

The case is very unusual and is almost a freak of nature or else mother nature just wanted to favor Mr. Adams a little, for his extra exertions on strawberries. You know there is a saying that "God helps him who helps himself."

Arrived Home Safely.

C. S. Knight, President of the Marion Zinc Co., who suffered a slight stroke of paralysis on his left side a few weeks ago and who was also troubled with rheumatism, had so far recovered as to be able to return to his home in Ft. Wayne, Ind.

He left here Monday night on the 10:15 train going direct to Chicago where connection was had with the Pullman Vestibule Sleeper direct to Ft. Wayne, only one change being made and that in the depot at Chicago

Mr. Knight was accompanied by his son, W. C. Knight, of St. Louis, his daughter, Mrs. Peters, of Ft. Wayne, a trained nurse, from Evansville and his valet, Hilman Calvert, colored, of this city. The RECORD-PRESS hopes the change will be beneficial to Mr. Knight and when once under his own roof, where loving hands and hearts can minister to his every wish and necessity, he will rapidly recuperate and soon again be looking after his immense interests in this, Livingston and Caldwell counties.

Dr. A. J. Driskill received a long distance message from Ft. Wayne, Ind., Wednesday morning announcing the safe arrival at his home, of Mr. Knight and his party.

An Elegant Breakfast.

Covers were laid for fourteen guests at the residence of Mrs. S. M. Jenkins at breakfast on Friday morning of last week in compliment to Miss Muh, of Jackson, Miss.

At eleven o'clock the guests were ushered to the dining room where a charming color scheme of pink and green was carried out in decorations of smilax and sweet peas. The place cards were hand painted in handsome designs of pink carnations tied with green ribbon.

Just as the guests were seated the arrival of Miss Muh was announced. The lady who entered created quite an excitement and was a perfect astonishment to the assembled guests. Instead of a beautiful young lady as they had anticipated behold a large buxom lady entered with all the grace and dignity of a woman of rank. What a marvelous thrill of humor predated the happy circle when they were brought to recognize the fact that it was Mr. Jenkins masquerading as the absent guest.

The breakfast was elegantly served in six courses, as follows:

Peaches and cream, creamed shrimps, broiled chicken on toast, asparagus in timbales, peas, frozen cherry frappe, fruit salad, brouleau and cake.

The guests were: Mesdames O. M. James, J. W. Wilson, Chas. Moore, Levi Cook, Misses Blanche Haase, Fannie and Kitty Gray, Fannie Woods, Inez Price. The out-of-town guests were Mesdames Peters, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., J. L. Grayot, of Princeton, Misses Merchant, of Brunswick, Mo., and Emmie Scott, of Frankfort.

Those who breakfasted declared it to be one of the most superb and charming social affairs of the season. The delightful menu, the unexpected surprise, and the cheerful associations will impress the page of memory with joy and delight.

A GUEST.

Marion Boys Defeated.

Last Friday afternoon the Fredonia and Wilson Steam Laundry teams crossed bats on the latter's diamond in this city. Up to and at the close of the fourth inning Marion boys had run in three scores and shut Fredonia out. During the fifth inning the Fredonia boys run in seven scores, this put our boys "up in the air" so they made only one more score. The score stood fifteen to seven in favor of Fredonia at the close.

This was the laundry boys second effort and they played good ball to have practiced so little. Quite a number of "rooters" accompanied the visiting team, perhaps that is why they did such good playing. However, our boys are ever backed with an enthusiastic crowd of spectators.

LOUISVILLE'S NEW MAYOR

Robert Worth Bingham Appointed Mayor of Louisville Last Week—Stockholder in Crittenden Co. Mines.

Governor Beckham last week appointed Robert Worth Bingham Mayor of Louisville to fill out the term of Paul C. Barth, who lost his office by a recent decision of the Court of Appeals. Mayor Bingham is well known to many of our people, having made frequent visits here to look after his mining interests. He came here first with Mr. R. D. Dresher and became interested in the Columbia Mining Co. Later he was elected a director in the Southern Lead and Zinc Co., being one of the promoters and largest stockholders in that company. Of him the "Louisville Evening Post" said the day after his appointment:

"Robert Worth Bingham is a North Carolinian by birth, his natal city being Asheville. He is in the prime of manhood, being thirty-six years of age. His early education was received in a military school at Asheville, of which his father is commandant. He later graduated with high honors from the University of North Carolina, and took a post-graduate course in the University of Virginia.

"Returning to his home, he became an instructor in his father's school, an institution that was founded by his great-grandfather in 1793. For four years he occupied the chair of Ancient Language.

"He married Miss Eleanor Miller, a daughter of Samuel A. Miller, of Louisville, in May 1896 and removing to this city matriculated in the Law Department of the University of Louisville, taking both courses in one year and graduating high in the class.

"Mr. Bingham entered the law office of J. T. O'Neal in 1879 and continued to practice in his chosen profession in that connection until 1900, when he founded a partnership with W. W. Davis, his present associate, under the firm name of Bingham & Davis.

"The vacancy in the office of County Attorney, caused by Samuel B. Kirby becoming Judge of the Chancery Court, Second Division, was filled by the appointment of Mr. Bingham. This was in January 1904. In the fall he was re-elected to fill out the remainder of the term and in 1905, was his own successor in the office.

"During the recent lid agitation, Mr. Bingham was chosen by the Governor to carry out his Sunday closing policy after the regular authorities had proven their inability to do so. His last act in his official capacity as County Attorney was the exposing of the alleged irregularities in the contracts for the Courthouse."

Circuit Court Adjourned.

Circuit court adjourned Tuesday afternoon, with the following cases disposed of:

Count's vs Lee Salyers, fined $20.
Same vs Charley Bennett, fined $50.
Same vs Charley Rice, dismissed.
Same vs Ben Capps, fined $20.
Same vs same, dismissed.
Same vs John Brantley, fined $5.
Same vs Frank Young and Cecil Baker, fined $5.
Same vs Joe Dollar, dismissed.
Same vs Ed Rutter, three years in penitentiary.

CHURCH NOTES.

The sermon at the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning was on Rom. 11:34, "For who has known the mind of God?" The last four verses of this chapter are a brief comment that the apostle Paul makes on the exposition of the doctrines Christianity. He describes the mind of God as deep, unsearchable, unchangeable, and that all of God's works are for his glory.

The sermon at night was based on Math. 27:22, "What shall I do with Jesus which is called the Christ?"

The Communion of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. Preparatory services will be held Friday night at 8 o'clock, and Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The members of the church are urged to be present, and friends are cordially invited to attend these services.

Mr. G. H. Turpin, of Clarksville, Tenn., has charge of the Presbyterian church at Tolu. He will preach at Forest Grove two Sundays each month. Next Sunday he will preach at Forest Grove.

Mr. Hoffman, a theological student spent a few days with Mr. Turpin at Tolu and preached for him at Forest Grove last Sunday. Mr. Hoffman will spend his summer vacation at Owingsville, Ky.

Stone-Owen.

Cleveland Stone and Miss Hazel Owen, of this place, took their friends on surprise when they eloped to Shawneetown Saturday night and were married. They returned Sunday evening and have been receiving congratulations.

The groom is an intelligent and industrious young man has a position in the Journal office. He is a son of H. S. Stone, formerly of this place but now of Hopkinsville.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Frank Owen, one of our rural carriers. She is a pretty and industrious young lady and we see no reason why the happy pair should not have a prosperous voyage thru life. Their many friends, including the Journal, wishes as much for them—Dixon Journal.

Mr. Cleveland Stone and Miss Hazel Owen, of Dixon, eloped to Shawneetown, Ill., last Saturday evening, where they were joined in holy wedlock. They were accompanied on the trip by Mr. and Mrs. Strother Russell. There were parental objection to the match on account of the tender years of the young lady. The groom is assistant foreman in the Dixon Journal and is a popular and worthy young man.—Providence Enterprise.

Mr. Stone is well and favorably known here, he was employed several months on The Crittenden Record. His many friends here congratulate him on the step he has taken and the young lady on winning a kind industrious husband.

Reception.

Thursday evening, June 27, at her home on College Street Mrs. R. F. Haynes, gave a reception in honor of her charming guests, the Misses Scott, of Frankfort. The hours of receiving were from eight to ten. Those who assisted the hostess were: Misses Scott, Messrs. C. W. Haynes, A. M. Shelby and W. O. Tucker.

The guests were greeted at the door and ushered in by Miss Frances Gray. Mesdames J. W. Wilson, S. M. Jenkins, J. H. Orme, W. O. Tucker; Misses Sallie Woods and Gwendoline Haynes furnished the music, which was very sweet, during the evening.

Miss Lillie Cook presided at the punch bowl and Misses Mary Coffield Marion Clement and Gwendoline Haynes served the refreshments, which consisted of ices, ice cream and cake.

The house was beautifully decorated with sweet peas and the lawn illuminated with many Japanese lanterns.

From ten to twelve the guests enjoyed many pleasant games of eucure. Everyone was loathe to leave and all voted Mrs. Haynes a charming hostess.

LARGEST IN WORLD

Colorado Dam That Will Impound 5,000,000 Cubic Feet of Water.

Through the consolidation of several irrigation companies in Colorado, arrangements have been completed for the construction of the largest dam in the world at a point nine miles northwest of Denver. J. G. White & Co., of New York, who will build the dam, as well as auxiliary works, state that it will have a length of nearly a mile and a quarter, a height of 150 feet and will contain 10,000,000 cubic yards of material.

The colossal size of this latest creation of engineering skill will be realized when it is compared with the new Croton dam in New York City water supply system, which contains less than 1,000,000 cubic yards, and with the great Roosevelt irrigation dam in Arizona, the largest of many big ones being built by the government, which contains only 350,000 cubic yards.

The Stanley dam, as the new structure will be known, will impound 5,000,000,000 cubic feet of water, a capacity sufficient for the regular irrigation of more than 100,000 acres of land. The flow of five rivers on the eastern slope of the Rockies will be confined in the great reservoir which the dam will form.

The dam and auxiliary systems, thus far projected for collecting and distributing the water, will cost upward of $4,000,000, and although the project constitutes the greatest irrigation development yet advanced by private enterprise in this country. —Exchange.

Card of thanks.

I want to publicly express my thanks and gratitude to the good people of Salem for their never ceasing kindness to me while on a bed of affliction, from the very first of my illness. They began coming with sweet smiling faces, bringing flowers, fruits, soups, ices, cakes and etc, in fact every thing one can imagine, nor did they stop or abate in the least for six long weary months. May Heaven's richest blessings rest upon you all.

MRS. M. E. BARNES.

Mining Notes.

The Albany Mining & Investment Co., which has just completed a fine mill here, now has over 100 tons of fine spar on the floor ready for shipment. This company recently put in a 100-horse power boiler and a 75-horse power engine, a Griffin spar grinding mill. W. L. Vera, the general manager, has his headquarters at Salem. The mill, which is located near the depot, is one of the best in the district. It is well worth a visit of inspection to any one interested in mining.

The Edwards Mining Co. will sink its shaft to a depth of 200 feet. It is now down 75 feet and the remaining 125 feet will be sunk as rapidly as possible. This company recently completed a fine lake, covering several acres, the water to supply the washers and run the other machinery at the mines near Crittenden Springs and is also preparing to add new engines and boilers.

Phillips-James.

Wednesday evening June 26, 1907 Mr. Reed Phillips and Miss Ada James, the attractive young daughter of Dr. H. A. James, were married at the home of Elder W. F. Paris where they had repaired to have the ceremony said by that eminent divine.

The groom is a son of the late Hice Phillips, a grandson of Piney Frank Wilson, and is a brother of Miss Iva Phillips, of this city.

The bride is also highly connected being related to many of the county's best people. The best wishes of many friends go with them in their married life.

Finger Cut Off.

Rudell, the little three-year-old daughter of Mrs. Dixie Franklin, met with a serious accident last Friday afternoon. While playing with a lawn mower at the home of A. H. Travis her little finger was cut off. Dr. Dixon was called and sewed the finger back to its place, although he had little hope of saving it.

Wednesday morning when the wound was examined, it was found necessary to amputate the finger at the knuckle joint, and this was successfully done, and the little sufferer is getting along alright.

Infant of Rev. and Mrs. Conway Dead.

Russell Dixon, infant son of Rev. and Mrs. T. A. Conway, died Monday evening at 7:35 o'clock, after an illness of only a week, aged five months and one day. The interment took place Tuesday afternoon at the new cemetery, Rev. J. H. Butler, officiating.

Lectured at the Auditorium.

Mrs. E. J. Sheeks lectured Tuesday night to a small audience at the school auditorium. On account of the Sunday School Convention which drew large crowds from the city, Mrs. Sheeks' engagement was not generally known and hence her small audience.

Wednesday she visited W. A. Deboe, her brother, at Blackford.

Mrs. Sheeks will lecture at Crayneville next Sunday and as she is well known there and a fluent talker she will no doubt have a good crowd out to hear her.

CARTWRITH'S EXPERIENCE

Leaves on Record His experience With a Wicked Woman—Tells How She Fought Him.

Hardly a reader of these columns that has not heard of "Peter Cartwright," one of the first preachers of the "Dark and Bloody Ground." We give below one among his many experiences with the uncultured people of his day.

This preacher was a good man and a useful preacher, his wife was directly the reverse in almost everything that was good, save she was believed to be virtuous. She was high tempered, over-bearing, quarrelsome and a violent opposer of religion. She would not fix her husbands clothes for him to go out and preach and was unwilling he should ask a blessing at his table or pray in the family and when he would attempt to pray she would not conform, but would tear around and make all the noise and disturbance in her power. She would turn over chairs while he was reading and singing, or praying and if she could not stop him any other way, she would catch a cat and throw it in his face while he was kneeling to pray.

Poor little man, surely he was tormented almost to desperation.

He had invited several preachers home with him to talk with her and see if they could not moderate her, but all to no purpose, she would curse them to their face and rage like a demon. He had insisted on my going home with several times, but I frankly confess I was afraid. I pitied him from my very heart, and so did everybody else that knew him. But at last I yielded to his importunities and went home with him one evening intending to stay all night. After we had arrived I saw in a minute that she was mad; the devil was in her as large as an alligator and I fixed my purpose and determined on my course. After supper he said to her very kindly: "Come wife, stop your little affairs and let us have prayer." At that moment she boiled over and said:

"I will have none of your praying about me."

I spoke to her kindly and expostulated with her and tried to reason, but no, the farther I went the more wrathful she became and she cursed me most bitterly. I then put on a stern countenance and said to her, Madam, if you were a wife of mine I would break you of your bad ways or break your neck.

"The devil you would," said she, "and you are pretty christian, ain't you?"

And such a volley of curses as she poured forth on me was almost beyond endurance. Be still, said I, we must, and we will, have prayer. But she declared we should not. Now, said I to her, if you do not be still and behave yourself I'll put you out of doors. At this she clinched her fists and swore she was one-half alligator and the other one-half snapping turtle and that it would take a better man than I was to put her out. It was a small cabin we were in and we were not far from the door, which was standing open. I caught her by the arm and swinging her around in a circle, brought her right up to the door and shoved her out. She jumped up, tore her hair, foamed and such swearing as she uttered was seldom equaled, and never surpassed.

The door, or shutter of the door, was very strong, made to keep out

For Lung Troubles

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral certainly cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption. And it certainly strengthens weak throats and weak lungs. There can be no mistake about this. You know it is true. And your own doctor will say so.

hostile Indians, I shut it tight, bared it and went to prayer and prayed as best I could. But I have no language to express my feelings, at the same time I was determined to conquer or die in the attempt. While she was raging and foaming in the yard and around the cabin, I started a spiritual song and sang loud to six little children, who ran and squatted about, crawled under the bed. Poor little things, they were scared almost to death. I sang on and she roared and thundered on outside until she became perfectly exhausted and panted for breath. At length when she had spent her force, she became calm and still and then knocked at the door saying:

"Mr. Cartwright, please let me in."

Will you behave yourself if I will let you in? said I.

"Oh, yes," said she, "I will."

Throwing myself upon my guard and being perfectly self possessed, I opened the door, took her by the hand, led her in and seated her near the fire place. She had raged until she was in a high perspiration and looked pale as death. After she had seated herself she said:

"Oh, what a fool I have been."

Yes, said I, about one of the biggest fools I ever saw in my life and now, said I, you have to repent for all this or you must go to the devil at last. She was silent. Said I, children come out here your mother won't hurt you now, and turning to her husband and brother, let us pray again. We knelt down and both prayed. She was as quiet as a lamb.

And now, gentle reader, although this was one of the hardest cases I ever saw on the earth, I must record it to the glory of divine grace. I lived to see, in less than six months, after this frolic with the devil, this woman soundly converted to God and if there ever was a changed mortal for the better, it was this said woman. Her children as they grew up, all I believe, obtained religion and the family became a religious, happy family and she was as bold in the cause of God as she had been in the cause of the wicked one.

Kentucky for Bryan.

Kentucky, on the democratic side, is for Bryan beyond peradventure, according to Congressman Ollie M. James, of Marion, of that State, who is in St. Louis, to appear before the Mississippi river commission in the interest of river improvement along the Western boundary of Kentucky.

"At a meeting of railroad commissioners, in the Western part of the State recently," said Mr. James, "in which at least one-half of the Democratic vote of the State was represented, I presented a resolution indorsing Mr. Bryan for the presidential nomination next year, and it was adopted without dissent."

"That," continued Mr. James, "is the way the rank and file in my State feel about the Nebraskan, notwithstanding Col. Watterson professor to be searching for a candidate with a mustache."

"We have nothing against a number of other prominent Democrats, for instance, we like Gov. Folk, of Missouri. But we see no reason why we should now turn aside from Mr. Bryan, after he has fought the battle, after the policies he advocates have been proven sound and even have been adopted by our political opponents."—St. Louis Times.

An Indian to Visit Bryce.

Quannah Parker, Chief of the Comanche Indians, has accepted an invitation from Mr. Bryce, British Ambassador of the United States, to visit the Ambassador at his home in England, and the invitation has inspired the Indian Chief, who is worth nearly a million dollars, to plan a visit to every nation of the world, after he completes his stay with Mr. Bryce.

Quannah Parker is wealthy in lands and chattels, and Ambassador Bryce has influenced him to spend a portion of it in becoming wiser and broader than any American Indian has ever become before.

Parker has three wives at the present time. One of them, "Too Nicey," his favorite wife, will doubtless accompany him, as will Mrs. Birdson, his educated daughter, who has for two years been engaged in preparing a manuscript of his life.

It is the purpose of Ambassador Bryce to write a history of the American Indians, and he declares that Parker of the Comanches and Geronimo of the Apaches more nearly approach the ideal Indian than any he has seen on his Western tour. —Lawton, Okla., Dispatch in the New York Herald.

MYSTERY OF THE NILE

How Water in the Historic River is Regulating the Harvest.

Every morning from a little room of a great white house on the eastern shore of the Nile, at Assuan, is clicked by telegraph to Cairo the question, "How much water?" The answer comes, so many thousand gallons more, or so many thousand gallons less. A button is pressed, the water which flows under the iron bridge at Cairo is increased or diminished some ten days later in accordance with the telegraphic answer, and the intervening valley between Assuan and Cairo has a little more or a little less water on its surface. The man at the button may bring joy or sorrow to thousands of little farms—it is all according to the message he receives.

From the great white house there extends across the river a granite wall or dam 150 feet high. Half way up this wall, and stretching its entire length, a line of shutters open or close by a pressure of the button. In the winter months a huge lake expands to the southward, which has every appearance of being a flood, for, in certain places, the tops of palm trees are discernable above its surface, and the summits of inundated ruins apparently mark the site of sunken cities. As the days go by and Cairo demands more and more water, the palm trees and the ruins seem to rise from their watery beds, until, in June and early July, the river flows freely with all its historic indolence.

Still the cry for water is unsatisfactory, and now the 150 feet of granite wall will be lengthened by 23 feet, which will double the power of the man at the button, and after that no more palms or ruins will unfold themselves, as the hot months come, from the surface of the lake. The palm trees will not be missed, but what of the ruins? That is the tribute of the past which modern agricultural Egypt is called upon to pay.

Just south of the granite wall is the island which holds the amphibious ruins. Twenty-three feet of granite now stand between it and oblivion. It is named Philae, and is the burial place of Osiris. A temple of 14 columns rises on its eastern bank, and on its western is the great temple of Isis, begun by Ptolemy Philadelphus and added to by the Roman emperors. Its front is in the form of a propylon, before which is an expansive court bounded by two galleries, the column sides of which skirt the shore for 250 feet. Beyond the propylon are many halls and chambers of curious and fantastic design. The whelming waters of the winter months have already begun their work. Floors have sunken, columns fallen, and walls crumbled. The 23 additional feet of granite will complete the work of devastation. Philae and its ruins will never again feel the sun of Egypt.

It was thought that the granite wall across the Nile at Assuan, 150 feet high, would provide perpetual irrigation for the desert to the north. That was a mistake. But will the 23 additional feet to the summit of the wall, which will forever bury Philae, complete the work? Will the man at the button in the great white house ever have the power that Joseph had to direct, increase or diminish the flow of the river? Joseph had no Assuan dam and no shutters to manipulate by the pressure of a button. In what, therefore, did his power to make Egypt perennially fertile consist?—New York Times.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative and my Book on either dyspepsia. The Heart or the Kidneys Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—means Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me to-day for samples and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by Haynes & Taylor.

Obituary.

The death angel has visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Binklo and made it sad and lonely by taking away their sweet little Rob, who was the joy and comfort of their home.

Robert James Binklo was born September 18, 1905 and died June 16, 1907. He was an intelligent, lovable little fellow and a favorite with all who knew him. He had just begun to say those precious, sweet words, "papa and mamma." But that sweet little voice is still and the noisy little feet will be heard no more in this land of sorrow. He had the terrible disease, flux and all that could be done by a faithful physician, fond parents and loving friends was done, but of no avail, it was the Lord's will to take him home to that bright world above to live with God and the angels.

Dear father and mother you can say as David said, "he can not return to but you can go to him" and Jesus said, "suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Little Rob was tenderly laid to rest in the Tyners Chappel cemetery to await the resurrection and when the trumpet of God shall sound, then he will rise clothed with all the beauties of glory and he, with all the redeemed of the Lord, shall be caught to meet the Lord in the air, so shall we ever be with him. So weep not as those who have no hope.

Dear father and mother bow in humble submission to Him who doth all things well: be faithful and it won't be long till you will meet your precious loved one in heaven, where diseases and death never come and where we will never say good bye.

RICE SCARES TEAM

Girl Pinned Between Door and Carriage is Dragged by Horses and Badly Hurt

New York, June 29.—Guests at the wedding yesterday afternoon of Miss Josephine Heine and Frederick Dawson gathered around to congratulate the couple as they were the home of the bride's parents at No. 495 West Twenty-third street, West New York.

"May good luck always attend you!" cried the guests as the pair walked to the gaily-decorated carriage. The coachman stood at the carriage door, leaving the horses, a mettlesome team unattended. As the bride's foot was on the step part of a shower of rice and old slippers intended for her struck the horses and they leaped forward as if struck with a lash.

The bride was caught between the door and the carriage and dragged for a dozen yards before she fell unconscious. Her leg was broken in two places, her body bruised and her pretty gown sadly torn. Dawson, well-nigh heartbroken, raised her in his arms and carried her into the house.

Henry Dawson, the father, was near the horses' heads when they bolted. In the excitement of the moment he thought his son's bride had entered the carriage and that her life perhaps depended upon his stopping the team. He clung to the headstalls and was dragged for half a block before his strength was exhausted. The wedding guests found him painfully cut and bruised and assisted him to the house.

The team ran to Hudson Boulevard and thence a mile and a half to Plum street, in Iron Hill, where the carriage valued at $1,000, crashed against a telephone pole and was totally wrecked.

The First Requisite of Beauty.

The first requisite of beauty is a clear complexion. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup clears a sallow blotched complexion as it stimulates the liver and bowels, and the eyes become bright and clear. You owe it to your friends to take it if your complexion is bad. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does not nauseate or gripe and is very pleasant to take. Refuse substitutes. J. H. Orme.

Coal in England.

Coal has been reached at a depth of 1,321 feet in Lord Londonberry's new colliery at Seaham harbor, in England, after a remarkable engineering feat. Owing to the presence of enormous quantities of water, forming a quicksand, it was found necessary to freeze the ground to a depth of nearly 500 feet. Twenty-eight holes were bored in a circle about the shaft to a depth of 484 ft. and freezing tubes were inserted. Brine was the medium used to extract the heat from the strata. The length of time required to form a wall of ice was 185 days, the wall being maintained for 253 days. In the shaft bottom the frozen sand was so hard that it could only be penetrated by blasting.

Cured of Lung Trouble.

"It is now eleven years since I had a narrow escape from consumption," writes C. O. Floyd, a leading business man of Kershaw, S. C. "I had run down in weight to 135 pounds, and coughing was constant, both by day and by night. Finally I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and continued this for about six months, when my cough and lung trouble were entirely gone and I was restored to my normal weight, 170 pounds." Thousands of persons are healed every year. Guaranteed at J. H. Orme's drug store 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

A $5,000,000 Bequest.

BITS OF BY-PLAY

James E. Travis is a clerk and delivery wagon driver for the Dial Corner Grocery. He says he has found two jobs that will suit Bob Fowler exactly. One is mixing paint for Hodge Fritts and the other is answering the phone for Lee Vick. It seems that Lee is on a deal with some Sturgis people to put in cement walks and the conversations over the phone have become burdensome. All this for Mr. Fowler's consideration.

In former years it used to be "Good morning, Mr. Gugenheim, how is your father?" It is now "Good morning, Mr. Gugenheim, how is your son?"

Jim Paris followed shoe making for a long time then went West. While there he dealt quite extensively in real estate and made quite a fortune. He had not been back home but a short while until he sold his Marion home in order that he might buy or build better, and is now contemplating the erection of a fine mansion. Taking all things into consideration, it is not any wonder that it is whispered about that he is a millionaire. Mr. Bill Fowler talks differently. He says he is not a millionaire, but a million rags in the air.

The Tree.

It shades us from the sun and storm;
 Its branches wide we see;
 But mark the course of mortal life
 In ages of the tree.

First on its trunk a lusty youth
 In most romantic part
 Entwined initials deftly carved,
 Surrounded by a heart.

Time runs. The busy years fly by
 On pinions swift and true;
 He cut a switch. Folks hear him say
 "This hurts me worse than you."

In lean and slippered pantaloons
 He hums an old refrain,
 And then for final age of all
 From it he cuts a cane.

Failed.

All efforts have failed to find a better remedy for coughs, colds and lung troubles than Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough, heals the lungs and prevents serious results from a cold. J. N. Patterson, Nashua, Iowa, writes: "Last winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and tried at least half a dozen advertised cough medicines and had treatment from two physicians without getting any benefit. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and two thirds of a bottle cured me. I consider it the greatest cough and lung medicine in the world." Sold by J. H. Orme.

Pearl Found in Fish Eye

Shelbyville, Ind., June, 29.—A fish with an eye of pearl, fabulous as the assertion may seem, was caught here by Peter Cummins in a well known fishing place in Brandywine creek. The prodigy of the funny tribe had lost, by some freak, its left eye. The socket was there, but the eye which had rested therein was absolutely solid. When abstracted from its resting place and submitted to the blows of a light hammer, it was found to be as hard as stone. By experienced fishermen it is said that it is a genuine pearl, such as are found in river mussels of a peculiar kind.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label. If poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for the very reason others, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

WORMS

All children complain frequently of headaches, backaches, that "their stomachs hurt," and that they "don't feel good." This condition is a common one and the trouble is almost invariably due to pin worms.

Children haven't the strength to combat their ills and indispositions without the aid of some reliable medicine.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

is an unfailing, harmless and absolute cure for worms, stomach and bowel troubles, and can be used as freely for either baby or the bigger child, as for full grown folks.

If your child seems indisposed, feverish, fretful, peevish, and all out of sorts, these are symptoms of worms. One dose of DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN as directed, the dejected condition will soon give way to health and vigor.

DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN can be obtained in both dollar and half-dollar sizes from all druggists.

Your money will be refunded if it does not benefit you.

Your postal card request will bring by return mail our new booklet, "DR. CALDWELL'S BOOK OF WONDERS" and free sample to those who have never tried this wonderful remedy. Write today.

In the Electrical World.

The smallest electrical motor in the world can be carried in the vest pocket or worn as a watch chain.

The largest electrical motor in the world was recently installed by the General Electric Company for the Indiana Steel Corporation. It is a 6,000 horse power induction motor.

The new tantalum and tungsten lamps, placed on the market within the past few months, have reduced the cost of incandescent lighting one-third for the same amount of light.

About seventy different kinds of electric heating and cooking devices are manufactured to-day for ordinary household use.

The latest and most important step in electrical manufacture is the electrification of steam roads. This promises to be one of the largest branches of the industry.

Thomas A. Edison, the Wizard of Menlo Park, announces that he will cease all hard work for a time and devote his spare moments to "playing" with electricity. The public can look forward to something new nevertheless.

The new luminous are greatly improves the quality and efficiency of the arc lamps. Lamps are made giving as much as 4,000 candle power or nearly five times as much as the ordinary arc lamp.

The very latest in heating devices are the baby milk warmer, combination shaving mug and water heater, and the corn popper.

The new type of electrical automobile does not depend upon a storage battery for power. A small gasoline engine drives a generator, which in turn supplies the electricity for the motors. The new device simplifies the control and improves the service.

Frozen water pipes are now thawed by electricity.

Another late invention is the vertical frequency changer designed to change the frequency of alternating current used for power purposes so it can be used advantageously for lighting. The moving element in these new machines floats on a film of oil in a step bearing the same as in the Curtis vertical steam turbine.

The steam turbine is revolutionizing steam power and cheapening the cost of electricity.

An electrical apparatus for milking cows has been invented.

Shoes can now be shined by electrical power; the carpet can be cleaned by the same force. An electrical device for winding large town clocks has also been placed on the market.

The largest transformers in the world were made for the Great Northern Power Company at Duluth, by the General Electric Company. Three units of 10,000 horse-power each have been installed and five others are to be constructed.

Young Bookkeepers.

Bookkeepers were never before as hard to find. The unusual prosperity of all business enterprises is directly the cause. Now is the time for young men to get into permanent and paying employment. It takes only six or eight months to learn bookkeeping. The time and the cost are trivial when compared to the results. Situations Guaranteed.

We do not guarantee situations to prospective students in order to get their cash. Schools of merit do not resort to such dishonest practices. Fake schools "guarantee" situations in order to secure students, because they have no other inducements to offer. Our work is so thorough that a guarantee is superfluous. Business men are so eager to get competent help here that a large percentage of our students take positions before they graduate. See us before making arrangements for your business and shorthand education at some inferior, fake school. We will take pleasure in telling you all about the loopholes in the "position guarantee" of dishonest schools. Catalogue free.

What a Waterway Did.

In the May number of "Derriek's British Reports," standard authority on trade statistics in England, the story of the rise of Manchester from being tributary to Liverpool to the position of rival of Liverpool will be of the greatest interest to all enterprises of the Ohio Valley. Manchester was tributary until the Manchester Canal was opened but to-day, as the Report states it: "Steamers of 10,000 tons sail past the water front of Liverpool and discharge upon the wharves of Manchester."

Manchester, thirty-five miles from the sea is on the banks of the Irwell. It was an insignificant stream, but a stream with possibilities and Manchester never rested until she had convinced the authorities that the Irwell could be canalized its entire length of thirty-five miles and that the profit would not be alone to Manchester but to all England. The Government finally took up the work, expending in all fifteen million pounds sterling, the equivalent of $75,000,000, more than enough to canalize the Ohio its entire length and greatly in excess of any estimate of the cost of the work--and to-day ships of 10,000 tons sail past the water front of Liverpool and discharge at Manchester.

Prior to the open of the Canal in 1892-- Manchester exports were sent overland to Liverpool and transhipped. It was a slow and expensive process which the Canal completely avoids, and the increase in Manchester exports not only justified expenditure on the Canal but they demonstrate that the Canal has been the prime factor in enabling England to compete with other Nations in the markets of the world. In 1895, three years after the opening of the Canal the Manchester exports of Yarn and Cloth, alone, were of the value of $354,035,160--an increase of $120,235,370 in ten years and greatly in excess of the cost of the Canal.

The lesson of the Manchester Canal is not alone in the increase of the trade of Manchester, nor in the impetus given to the trade of all England, but it is of value in the suggestion that what Manchester could impress on the British government, the enormous interests of the Ohio Valley can impress on the Congress by unity of action in pressing the just demand for the completion of the Nine Foot Stage at vastly less cost than the Canal which made Manchester the rival of Liverpool and increased the world commerce of England enormously.

A Suburban Lad.
A boy and a dog and a merry tune,
A raggedy cap and a face like June--
I met with them all in the early morn,
Enroute to the mill where the lambs are shorn.

I dreamed of them all as I sped along,
Enroute to the town with its jumbled song,
And fresh on my lips was his gladsome tune--
The boy with the dog and the face like June!

And softly the smile that he smiled, I know,
Was wreathing my face in a happy glow;
And deep in my heart was the fragrant joy
Of him I had met--of the whistling boy.

A capering boy with a yellow pup,
A raggedy cap and a buttercup--
I once was a boy on a country flat
With tunes and a tan and a dog like that!

Enough.

Did you see that pained expression on our Emily's sweet face? Did you note her look of anguish as she pushed up to her place? No, it isn't grip or toothache, blasted love or hapless blues-- It is merely that our Emily is breaking her new shoes!

Wedding Ceremonials.

One picturesque scene in the Munda wedding ceremony is worth noticing. The bride goes to a stream or well near by with her pitcher, and, having filled it, raises it aloft on her head, steadying it with her hand. The bridegroom comes behind as she turns homeward, and, resting his hand on her shoulder, shoots an arrow along the path in front of her through the loophole formed by her uplifted arm. The bride then walks to where the arrow lies, and picks it up with her foot, still balancing the pitcher on her head. Transferring it gracefully to her hand, she restores it to the bridegroom, thus showing that she can perform her domestic duties well, with hand and foot, at his service. He, in turn, by shooting the arrow in front of her, has shown his ability to protect her and clear her path from any danger that may beset it.

No Feuds There.

The women of our town at last have met and got together. They all were present and not one was left at home, forsaken. The reason that we see them thus, all flocked as birds of feather, is this: The ladies met to have a big group picture taken!

Bullish Opinion Change.

Wheat has given a much better account of itself in the last week than the trade at Chicago had any right to expect. Despite serious curtailment of outside trade because of threatened delays in communication by the impending telegraphers' strike the market has scored a fair advance. If values should continue to improve against all ordinary June precedent when stocks are so large it will be a valuable commentary on the deep-rooted and widespread belief that the wheat crop this year is to be a short one both in this country and in Europe.

Mr. W. S. Warren, former president of the Chicago Board of Trade, states to your correspondent that, in his belief, the price of wheat will go very much higher before autumn. "I expect," he says, "to see an upward movement in wheat in August or September that will likely carry prices far above a dollar a bushel." The statistical data has never been so bullish in the history of the wheat trade as at the present time. The scarcity will be so great this year, both in the United States and abroad that producers will be able to dictate their own prices.

Corn also will go much higher unless we have a late fall. The planting has been so late that the crop will be unusually subject to frost. I think short trading in any grain on the Chicago Board of Trade will this year be more dangerous to those engaging in it than playing with a buzz-saw--Journal of Finance.

To find out for a certainty whether or not your heart is affected. One person in four has a weak heart; it may be you. If so, you should know it now, and save serious consequences. If you have short breath, fluttering, palpitation, hungry spells, hot flushes; if you cannot lie on left side; if you have fainting or smothering spells, pain around heart, in side and arms, your heart is weak, and perhaps diseased. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure will relieve you. Try a bottle, and see how quickly your condition will improve.

"About a year ago I wrote to the Miles Medical Co., asking advice, as I was suffering with heart trouble, and had been for two years. I had pain in my heart, back and left side, and had not been able to draw a deep breath for two years. Any little exertion would cause palpitation, and I could not lie on my left side without suffering. They advised me to try Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nerve, which I did with the result that I am in better health than I ever was before, having gained 14 pounds since I commenced taking it. I took about thirteen bottles of the two medicines, and haven't been bothered with my heart since." MRS. LILLIE THOMAS, Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

WIN SUCCESS IN NURSING

The Best Paying Occupation--- Free Scholarships.

Nursing the sick is perhaps the most attractive field for the ambitious woman who would win success and make the most of life. It is a refined occupation. It gives skill to the hand and grace to the heart. It is the best paying occupation now open to women, and presents an ever-widening field of opportunity. The call for nurses is a world-wide call. It is the one calling that is not overcrowded.

The demand for skilled nurses increases with the years. Thousands of young women have the natural graces of the skilled nurse, but have never had a chance to cultivate them and so have been prevented from improving their own condition and blessing the race. But a new day has dawned. Large hearted philanthropists have opened wide the door of opportunity at the Philadelphia School for Nurses, 2219 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa. A Two Years' Free Course has been established at this Institution, wherein the student is provided with room, board, laundry, nurse uniforms, and all the refinements of a good home, with suitable training, instruction and actual nursing in the homes of the poor and among people of moderate income, and at the end of the Course the student's fare home is paid.

The term can be shortened to eighteen months by a Course of six months reading and studying at home—a course which is very valuable in itself. Hundreds of young women, scattered all over the country, are started in the work, becoming not only self-supporting, but a boon to their respective neighborhoods.

A Short Course is also provided for the woman who wishes to quickly prepare for self-support and a substantial income. Enrollment is now in progress for a class of four hundred students in the Resident Courses next year. Young women from the smaller towns and country districts are favored in the distribution of scholarships, with a view of conveying hospital knowledge to all rural communities.

Over Land and Over Water.

Hall's Statistics of the West, published in 1836, has an interesting account of the work of Col. Long, U. S. A. Engineer Corps, in the improvement of the Ohio, below Louisville, in the construction of wing dams "so as to confine the current of the river within narrow bounds, and to give it a sufficient volume to was a channel for itself." But the means at the command of Col. Long were limited and the wing dams constructed of piles driven into the sand in a short time disappeared. In commenting on the effort of Col. Long, Judge Hall says: "The only objection to any of these measures is that they have not been attempted on a scale of magnitude becoming their importance. The Western plain is the center of our empire, the citadel of its strength, the magazine of its resources, the heart whose healthful operation must throw out vigor and nourishment to the whole continent, and here should the Nation lay deep and broad the foundation of its future greatness."

The words of Judge Hall are applicable today to the great artery of the continent, the Ohio river, and that which he urged should be urged today by every community in the six Ohio river states, to undertake its improvement on a scale becoming its importance, with all that can be given by a great Nation for if the Western plain is the heart of the country, and it is, the Ohio river is the great artery by which the rich, red blood of the heart is to be pulsed giving life to trade and commerce where now, because of inadequate means of transportation, there is too often stagnation.

Judge Hall also states a fact which existed in 1836 and which every interest in the Ohio Valley knows exists today. He cites the fact that the old time carriage of goods from the seaboard over the Alleghenies to Pittsburgh cost the merchant $6 per 100 pounds while, as he says, "We have instances in the last five years of merchandise being delivered at the wharf of Cincinnati for $1 per 100 pounds from Philadelphia by way of New Orleans. That is to say $6 per 100 pounds for overland carriage of 550 miles and $1 per 100 pounds for a waterway carriage of over 2,500 miles. The same difference exists between railway rates and water rates today and will continue to exist in the Ohio river states until the completion of the Nine Foot Stage from Pittsburgh to Cairo. Whether by stage in the 50's or by rail today the tax of overland carriage of freight is a most grievous burden which the improved Ohio would remove.

Doctors Could Not Help Her.

"I had kidney trouble for years," writes Mrs. Raymond Conner, of Shelton, Wash., "and the doctors could not help me. I tried Foley's Kidney Cure, and the very first dose gave me relief and I am now cured. I can not say too much for Foley's Kidney Cure." It makes the diseased kidneys sound so they will eliminate the poisons from the blood. Unless they do this, good health is impossible. Sold by J. H. Orme.

"The Lord Loves a Cheerful Giver."

That "the Lord loves a cheerful giver, nobody who believes in the Bible will deny. A stingy person may be full of good intentions, but it is an old saying that "the streets of hell are paved with good intentions"—good intentions that were withheld by selfishness. A fellow who continually indulges "pipe dreams" about how largely he intends to give when he acquires the fortune of Rockefeller, is wrong at heart. A dime given of your necessity is more precious in the sight of the Lord than a million given of your superfluity. With most of us life is largely made up of small things and if we neglect our opportunity to make small gifts and sacrifices, of our want or necessity, to help in the furtherance of a good cause, or to brighten the pathway and lighten the burden of some one more unfortunate than ourselves, or of those who by reason of kinship or otherwise it may be our duty to assist in "flagging over" the hard places, we are apt to come to our end without anything to our credit on the gift side of the line.

Choosing a Wife.

The vivacious lady who writes under the pseudonym of "Dorothy Dix" has turned from her task of instructing girls and women to bestow some good counsel upon young men who contemplate matrimony.

There is no better way, she says, to get a real line on the sort of a wife the girl will make than to go camping in her company. Matrimonial excursions ought to be conducted for the benefit of would-be Benedicts.

"If you find a girl who takes along sensible clothing, who always manages to look neat; who is always willing to lend a helping hand and do her part; who knows how to do things and get a cinder out of an eye, or make a pan of biscuits or cut sandwiches; who does not get cross or sulky if the train is late, or a campfire won't burn or it happens to rain, but who on the contrary, is cheerful, full of expedients, and possesses the knack of making the best of things, then rest assured that you have found a pearl among women, who will make a wife that will enhance in value as the years go by, and who will cause you to bless the day that you led her to the altar."

Dorothy says it is easy enough to discover whether a girl will make a nagging wife or not. "If you see a girl who can never let any little thing rest, but who harps continually on a mistake or some offense, real or financial, know by this token that she is one of the foreordained husband baiters.

"Woe to the man who is taken by her pretty face, is indiscreet enough to marry her! She will taunt him forever with the money he has lost, the man he lent his overcoat to, the night he forgot to put the cat out, and every other sin of omission and commission in the calendar that he commits.

"If you wish to ascertain if you will be hen-pecked if you marry a certain girl, observe her in her own family.

"If she is the boss of her own home, rest assured that she will boss yours. If her father has to sit on the back porch to smoke his pipe you will never be permitted to realize your dreams of a quiet cigar by your hearthstone.

"If her mother begins every sentence with 'Mamie says' you will never be allowed an opinion of your own after you are Mamie's husband.

"If you see a girl who forces her poor old father to work himself to death to supply her heartless demands for chiffons, you have got as good a tintype as you need of the way you will have to hump yourself to buy her picture hats and lace coats that you cannot afford.

"If you see a girl that sits in the parlor reading novels while her tired mother washes the dishes in the kitchen, you have a living picture of the way you will have to get up and get breakfast and roll the perambulator while your wife indulges in nerves, if you are idiotic enough to marry her."

England's Historic Miser.

John Camden Neild, whose magnificent bequest to Queen Victoria supplied the funds out of which the prince consort built the present Balmoral castle, deserves a place among the great misers and was as remarkable a man as any of them. He was educated at Eton and Trinity college, Cambridge, and was a barrister at Lincoln's Inn. At the age of thirty-four his father's death placed him in possession of a fortune of £250,000, and from that moment he became a confirmed miser. Neild lived at 5 Cheyne walk, Chelsea. His big house was so meanly furnished that it did not even boast of a bed. Two old women, who did his chores, and a black cat were his sole companions. When he visited his large estates in the Midlands, which he did frequently, he generally walked unless he could get a lift for nothing, and he was not even above taking a gratuitous seat on a dung cart. Sometimes he was compelled by the weather to take a seat on the stagecoach, and there he would sit outside, shivering and dripping, for he never wore a greatcoat, an object of commiseration to his fellow passengers.

Lincoln's Rebuke.

The saying that there are few honest lawyers did not hold true in the case of Lincoln. A man once called to retain him on a suit. "State your case," said honest Abe. The man did, and then Lincoln said: "I cannot represent you, for you are wrong, and the other party is right." "That is none of your business if I employ you," said the client. "Pardon me," said the man who afterward became president; "my business is never to defend wrong. I never take a case that is manifestly wrong."

"Well, but you can make trouble for the other fellow." "Yes," said Lincoln, "I can set a whole community at loggerheads, I can make trouble for this widow and her fatherless children and by so doing get you $900 that rightfully belongs to her, but I won't do it." "Not if I pay you well?" "Not for all the money you are worth," was the reply.

A Warrior Too.

The wooden boards that had marked the graves in a certain rural cemetery rotted off and were raked up in the spring cleaning. Consequently on Memorial day when the delegation from the G. A. R. arrived with flags and appropriate floral decorations for their departed comrades the decorating committee found itself somewhat in doubt as to which grave belonged to Captain Blodgett and which to Hannah Ericson. The mistaken delegates heaped their offerings upon Hannah's last resting place and departed. That afternoon Ericson, the widower, drifted, with the rest of his world, to the cemetery. When he saw the flag and the flowers above Hannah the astonished Swede fell to chuckling joyously.

"Well," he exclaimed delightedly, "those fuller hane poety smart tool. Ay tank dat vor all right and som gude yoke on Hannah—be vor poety gude fighter herself!"—Youth's Companion.

Devonshire Terrace.

Dickens was twenty-seven years old when, in 1839, he moved from Doughty street to Devonshire terrace. George du Maurier lived for some years in 1 Devonshire terrace. In this celebrated house Dickens wrote no fewer than ten of his books—"The Old Curiosity Shop," "Barnaby Rudge," "The Christmas Carol," "American Notes," "Martin Chuzzlewit," "The Hanted Man," "The Battle of Life," "Donkey and Son," "The Cricket on the Hearth" and "David Copperfield." Devonshire terrace was situated at the corner of the Marylebone road and used to be called the smallest terrace in London.

It Varied.

The late Judge Saunders of North Carolina was noted as an angler, but he had a poor memory as to the weight of the fish he had taken. On one occasion a friend, trying to entrap him, said, "Say, judge, what was the weight of that big catfish you caught the other day?"

The judge turned to his waiter and said, "Bob, what did I say that catfish weighed?"

"What time yesterday, boss—in de mawnin', at dinner or after suppah?"

The Moon.

Astronomers long since came to the conclusion that the moon's surface is very hot during the height of the lunar day, which, as will be remembered, lasts two weeks, and very cold during the lunar night, which is equally long. These extremes of temperature reach their height at the lunar noon and midnight and are greater than any natural temperatures on the earth.

Outcome Always Same.

A Philadelphian was praising for his learning and uprightness the late Judge M. Russell Thayer.

He quoted the moving passage from Judge Thayer's will:

"Owing to the fact that almost my entire life has been passed in the public service of the United States and of the state of Pennsylvania, I have but a small estate to leave to my dear children and wife."

"Judge Thayer," he continued, "was a very honorable man. First as a lawyer, afterward as a judge, he treated all with whom he had dealings with the greatest fairness. Once, years ago, after he had served me well in a difficult case, I remonstrated with him about the smallness of his fee.

"Well," he said, smiling, and smelling the flower in his buttonhole, "I, you know, am not that type of lawyer whose client once said:

"I never was entirely ruined but twice. Once when I lost a lawsuit and once when I gained one."—Washington Star.

OUR TROUBLES.

They Are of Three General Kinds, and There Is a Remedy.

Troubles are of three different kinds: The troubles you have had. The troubles you have. The troubles you are looking for.

The first of these three kinds of trouble will not press heavily upon the philosophical mind. It is a closed incident, and on the principle that pains and perils through which we have come to safety are negatively pleasant memories, we ought to extract the semblance of happiness from the troubles we have had and disposed of.

Remorseful dwelling on what is done forever is a mistake of fools. The common sense of the situation resides only in casting out of mind the regrettable act of circumstance and turning to the present with a determined spirit that will fight for its own—for the right to happiness now and here, in this tangible instant that we call time present.

As to the second class, there is a fact in nature to the point. The nettle is armed with the most penetrating of needle pointed thorns, but they are formidable only to the timid and hesitating. Approach the plant without apprehensiveness of "trouble," seize it boldly and defiantly with a strong clutch, and the prickles that draw blood on the weak kneed or the weak handed will take on a velvety caress.

The lesson is obvious. The trouble that is now trying to swamp you will loosen its hold on your spirit and take to its heels if you but turn on it. "The eye of childhood ever fears a pointed devil." The very devil himself cunningly contrives not to materialize.

The trouble you are looking for need not dismay you. If you go out in the morning resolved on finding it, even if you have to fight for it, the likelihood is that some time during the day it will take on a form that you will recognize.

But that will be largely your own lookout. There are men that resent insult before it is offered. You will metaphorically see them suspiciously and belligerently peeking around a corner to discover who it is that is presently to come along and offer some indignity.

A sense of personal injury has possession of them, though if you appeal to them for a reason or for a fact or an act in support of their indictment to somebody—anybody—they are necessarily dumb. The whole thing is but a monstrous birth of their imagination. The trouble you are looking for will never trouble you if you stop looking for it.—Exchange.

The Secret of Good Health.

The doctor took off his nose glasses, looked through them at the window, fished out a piece of chamomile skin and began polishing them.

"The trouble with most people," he began as he rubbed harder at a particularly stubborn spot, "is that when they get up in the morning feeling well they say: 'My, I'm in fine shape this morning! I feel as if I could eat most any old thing.' And then they proceed to do so. Before night they say: 'I feel so well this morning, and now I feel so terribly worn out and tired. I believe it's a bad omen to get up in the morning feeling so fine.' If the idiots would only eat nothing at all or very sparingly of something dainty and nourishing they could preserve their feeling of elation till considerably later in the day. The very moment," the doctor concluded as he placed his glasses where they belonged, "that the human digestive apparatus begins to be cheerful over a good rest and to believe that its owner has some sense after all, the aforesaid owner thinks he is starving and thereupon stuns it with a load of indigestible garbage."—Chicago News.

Grass Snakes.

The somewhat natural prejudice which exists against vipers is extended, unfortunately—though not, perhaps, unnaturally—to everything resembling a snake, and on this account the common grass snake is often needlessly destroyed. It is perfectly harmless and in its fresh grayish green skin is quite unmistakable, yet if suddenly encountered in a hedgerow or issuing from a ditch death is generally its portion. The way in which, on its own account, it deals death to frogs is somewhat awful in the denouement. The victim, seeming to realize the hopelessness of any attempt to escape, becomes literally paralyzed with fright and, leaping with epeebled power, is soon seized by a hinder leg and drawn into the jaws of the enemy. The adder's method of feeding is similar, but death is more speedy from the wound inflicted by its tubular teeth. The grass snake altogether lacks these teeth and swallows its prey alive. A frog has been heard to scream after being entombed.—London Times.

A Noted Basso's Egotism.

Once in London were four great basses singing at the same time, Lablache, Marini, Staudigl and Kari Formes. Fashionable opinion was undecided as to which of the four was the greatest, and finally the members of a leading club determined to have the quartet of singers interviewed separately by one of the members to find out to whom each of the singers awarded the palm of being the greatest basso then in London. Staudigl answered promptly and truthfully, "Lablache is the best." Marini replied, "I will not say who is the first basso, but I am sure Lablache is the second." Lablache modestly responded, "If Staudigl were not here, I certainly would claim the lead." Formes without hesitation instantly said, "The greatest basso, sir—that's me, Kari Formes."

Obituary.

Mr. Hayes Hill departed this life June 15, 1907, age 27 years and six months. He was born in Crittenden county Kentucky but at an early age he emigrated with his father, H. C. Hill, to Yakima county, Washington.

He was the youngest member of the family. After his maturity, he was clerk in a merchandise store for Mr. Thompson, of Parker Bottom, for several years until his health became impaired and he fell a victim to that fatal malady, consumption, after which he resided with his elder brother, R. F. Hill, near Zillah.

He was a moral, chaste, upright young man, though making no public demonstration, yet he believed in the true principles of christianity and was an earnest student of his Bible.

He bore his afflictions with submissive patience and fortitude and with a tender, kind regard for the feelings and welfare of others.

He leaves an aged father, five brothers, four sisters-in-law and many friends and relatives who feel sadly the loss they have sustained.

The funeral services were conducted by the writer at his residence and the remains were followed by a large concourse of friends to the cemetery at Zillah and their loving hands laid him peacefully to rest.

"Thy body worn with care,
Sleeps as a lily fair;
Immortals with thy spirit share
The endless spirit life!"
